

47 PROBABLE TOLL IN STEAMER DISASTER

Moroccans
Menace City
Of Melilla

LONDON, August 8.—Moroccan tribesmen, who two weeks ago, signally defeated Spanish troops in northeast Morocco and who have been pressing their advantage since that time, are reported to have appeared in force before Melilla, the last stronghold of the Spanish in that section of the country. It is asserted that panic reigns in the city, and that civilians are seeking safety on board ships in the harbor.

Uncertainty surrounds the fate of General Navarro and several hundred men, who were reported last week to have been surrounded by moors on Mount Arruit. Madrid advices indicate the fear in official quarters there that General Navarro's forces have been annihilated. It was reported from Madrid last night that the body of General Silvestre, commander of the Spanish troops which met defeat two weeks ago and who committed suicide following the reverse at the hands of the Moors, had been found. Spanish soldiers have been landed on the Moroccan coast southeast of Melilla, where they are under protection of the guns of warships, but it would not appear they have made any serious advance against the right flank of the Moorish army advancing upon Melilla. Dispatches state that the tribesmen have been shelled by the warships.

PARIS, August 8.—King Alfonso is understood to have asked former Premier Maury of Spain to form a new cabinet, says a Madrid dispatch in the Journal quoting reports in that city. Senor Maury is said to have accepted with reservations, and the king has continued his conferences with political leaders. The dispatch says a ministerial crisis will come in a few days.

NEW TAX BILL MAY BE READY BY THE
END OF NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 8.—The real work of revising of 1918 revenue law was begun today by Republican members of the House of Representatives, with the expectation that they will have the new bill ready for the House of Representatives by the end of next week.

The big problem was the determination of the cuts to be made in present taxes. There are almost as many views, at least on some parts of the subject, as there are members of the committee, and it was believed that the harmonizing of these would require some little time.

One difference revolves around the transportation tax. Some committee members favor immediate repeal of all of this levy, while others believe it would be the part of wisdom to follow the treasury suggestion that one-half be cut off now and the remainder next year.

Treasury suggestions for new taxes, except possibly an increased levy on cigarettes and tobacco, appeared to have supporters. It had, been explained, however, that to revise or repeal some of the taxes regarded as particularly objectionable or burdensome it might be necessary to impose some of the additional levies.

These questions, together with that of whether the excess profits tax is to be repealed as of last January 1, or next January 1, remain to be worked out. Prospective of the effective date of the excess profits repeal and the substitution of an additional

Jobless Set Fire to Lumber

LONDON, August 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Disappointed over their failure to obtain jobs at a timber yard in East London, which advertised for fifty men, 5,000 unemployed laborers today broke into the premises and set fire to a stock of lumber valued at 1,000,000 pounds. ($5,000,000). Considerable damage was done before 500 foot and mounted police made way for a fire brigade.

Musicians
On A Strike

NEW YORK, August 8.—The second phase of the walkout ordered by the Musical Mutual Protection and Association came today when musicians employed in approximately 100 vaudeville theatres were ordered to stay out of the orchestra pits. Most of the vaudeville managers claimed to be ready with new orchestras, recruited from the ranks of the American Federation of Musicians.

Moving picture houses felt the force of the walkout yesterday when orchestras failed to report, under an order of the union effective Saturday at midnight.

Musicians managers met the situation in various ways. Some employed new orchestras, while others relied on pianos and organs. Vocalists were featured in some houses. In others the orchestra pits were converted into flower gardens. The walkout was ordered as a protest against a proposed wage reduction and was intended, union officials said, to forestall a lockout which the managers were declared to have planned for tomorrow.

No Decision
On Lloyd
George's Plan

PARIS, August 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Statements made here this forenoon on apparently good authority that Mr. Lloyd George, the British prime minister had announced his decision not to go to the United States to attend the disarmament conference in Washington opening November 11, were given official denial this afternoon. The British delegation attending the allied supreme council here authorized the following announcement:

"There is absolutely no truth in the report that Mr. Lloyd George has stated he will not go to the Washington conference of November 11."

The British prime minister's secretary added:

"The point is that the British cabinet has not yet considered the personnel of the British delegation to the Washington conference."

DRAFT BOARD SCORED
COLUMBUS, O., August 8.—"No job, no home, no nothing." Such was the salient cry of Frank E. Patton, held at the Columbus barracks when notified that he had been exonerated of a charge of evasion of draft. The war department order said the charges were "erroneously preferred."

The Hamilton draft board was charged with "gross carelessness" in misjudging papers notify Patton of his induction.

CANADA SUSPICIOUS OF THE CHARACTER OF DISARMAMENT PARLEY

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Canadian officials regarding the Washington government indicate a suspicion as to the character of the disarmament conference as it affects the British dominions. The impression seems to exist that there will be votes at the conference and some writers wonder why the United States should issue a special invitation to Canada.

Those in authority here say there will be no voting at the disarmament conference. Decisions will not be reached that way. Each power represented will have an opportunity to express its views but nothing will be considered final until a unanimous agreement has been reached. If there is divisions of opinion there will be the usual attempts to compromise but unless everybody agrees to the proposition in the end the conference will have failed of its main purpose.

The peace conference at Paris was conducted the same way—each power had a sovereign right to disagree and refuse to accept any part of the treaty but when it was finally signed it represented the unanimous judgment of all nations.

The idea of votes at the November conference on disarmament soon to be the outgrowth of the controversy over the alleged 45 votes of the British empire in the league of nations to (Continued on Page Six)

"Romantic Lover of Old Times"
Was Lou, But Farrar Loved Art

NEW YORK, August 8.—Gertrude Farrar, well known opera star and movie actress, is evidently weary of her much-talked about "romantic lover husband," Lou Tellegen. At least indications point that way, for the romantic Lou was locked out by Jerry of the golden voice and denied admission to his house by the servants. For shame, Jerry and Lou, after all the lovey things you told us, interviewers not three months ago.

The billing and cooing this well-known couple boasted of would have put any pair of turtle doves out of business. But now that is all over and Tellegen has even gone so far as to file suit for separation. The charge is desertion. It is not known just what has caused the "cool" treatment of Lou, but friends believe that it is all due to "artistic temperament."

Tellegen is credited with being very domestic in tastes, while Gertrude is "merely occupied" with her artistic pursuits.

When interviewed but a short time ago concerning her domestic life, Miss Farrar lamented the fact that "the modern young man and woman know so little of the art of making love."

She confessed that for her there was no love making save for Mr. Tellegen and she boasted of him as "one of the romantic lovers of old time."

Lou Tellegen is a Greek by birth. He played in France with Sarah Bernhardt and came to this country with her. Later he was made leading man in several Broadway productions and finally entered the picture business. He met Miss Farrar in New York the winter preceding their engagement, but wooed her in California where both were making pictures. After the marriage they appeared together in several pictures.

Miss Farrar recently signed a contract which will take her across the continent next fall with an independent company, returning in time for the New York season with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

White May Run For Governor

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Chairman George White, of the Democratic National Committee, said today he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio at this time, but had the matter "under consideration with mental reservation."

Mr. White, who is at his summer home here, said that certain conferences of Democrats to be in September or October, probably would determine whether he would be a candidate for the Ohio governorship.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 8.—Some Democratic leaders who were close to the Wilson administration said today they understood definitely that Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee would be a candidate for Governor of Ohio next year. Chairman White himself was out of the city.

MARIETTA, O., August 8.—Close personal friends of Chairman George White, of the Democratic National Committee, today, affirmed Washington reports that Mr. White will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio next year. Mr. White is at his summer home at East Hampton, Long Island.

"How I Made Woodrow

DUBLIN, August 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Eamon DeValera, the Republican leader discussing with newspaper men today the case of John J. McKeown, declared he did not believe the refusal to release McKeown with the other imprisoned members of the Irish Republican parliament represented the considered decision of the British government. It was done, he thought, by subordinates, who based their action on technicalities.

LONDON, August 8.—(By the Associated Press)—While no definite pronouncement could be obtained this forenoon regarding the case of John J. McKeown, members of the Irish Republican parliament, the impression was given in official circles that he would be released with the other Sinn Fein members who have been in prison.

It was intimated that the decision to retain him in prison, was announced Saturday came from Dublin Castle, and was not the ruling of the British cabinet, which had not rendered a decision in the matter.

It was pointed out that Irish prisoners were being progressively released and here again the guarded intimation was given that the case of McKeown would be reached in due time.

It is understood Premier Lloyd George, now in Paris for the supreme council meeting, is keeping in close touch with the Irish situation and a courier who is reported to have been sent by Eamon DeValera to Mr. Lloyd George from Ireland, is believed to have gone on from this city to the French capital on his mission. The understanding is that the settlement of the McKeown case is entirely in the hands of the premier.

The opinion is expressed in official circles that while the ends of justice, in the opinion of the premier, is highly probable that the premier, in the higher interests of peace, may consent to his release.

The Sinn Fein viewpoint is that McKeown is entitled to the benefit of the recognition which it is claimed the government has given the belligerent status of the Irish republican army, in which he was a leader. It was asserted that there is general resentment over the fact that he is charged with the murder of District Inspector McGrath, which it is contended, was an act of war.

Explosion
Blows Ship
In Twain

EUREKA, CALIF., Aug. 8.—The steamer Alaska, which struck on the rocks at Blunt's Reef Saturday night, with a probable death list of forty-seven, was split in two by the explosion of the boilers when the boat started to sink, survivors said here today and passengers and members of the crew were thrown into the sea by the explosion.

The steamer Anyox brought 166 survivors of the wreck to Eureka. Seventeen dead were also brought here including three women and a child. There are thirty-one others missing and believed dead. Twelve of the dead have been identified.

The list of missing may be changed.

for lists of passengers and crew aboard have not been verified.

The full story of the sinking of the Alaska did not become known until survivors had landed here. It was brought out the Alaska was proceeding toward San Francisco in a dense fog when she struck a submerged ledge of the reef. This shock was almost instantly followed by another as she struck an out-cropping of the reef above water.

The Alaska struck the reef shortly after 9 o'clock. Immediately distress signals were flashed. Five miles away the steamer Anyox of Vancouver, picked them up and disregarding fog and danger of striking the same rocks as the Alaska, put on full speed to the rescue. At 9:30 o'clock the Anyox received Alaska's final message:

"We are sinking by the head."

Big Ship Sinks
Before the Anyox could reach the stricken Alaska, the latter had sunk. In the fog the Anyox came upon a life boat filled with survivors from the Alaska. The boat was partially filled with sea water and oil. The oil, survivors said, had been thrown over them in their boat by the explosion of the boilers which wrecked the Alaska amidships.

The Anyox cruised about in the fog until many other survivors had been picked up from the water, including several women and children. Among these were 18-year-old Frona Ecker, of Cornelius, Oregon, who is in a hospital with her chest crushed. She was caught between a life boat and the side of the sinking ship while the boat was being lowered and was in the water from 9:30 Saturday night until 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning before being picked up and taken aboard the Anyox. The ropes of the life boat in which she was being moved, gave way, she said, and its entire cargo was thrown into the sea.

Eileen Dyer, of La Grande, Oregon, aged 5, was rescued by the Anyox after she had drifted around on wreckage in the icy waters for nearly eight hours. Little Eileen was unconscious when found and was brought back to consciousness only through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Grace Campbell, of San Francisco, Eileen, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dyer, and her sister and brother, the latter twins, was on her way for a visit to San Francisco.

Mr. Dyer, who was 22 years old, and both of the twins, aged six, are reported missing.

Some of the survivors planned to leave today for San Francisco aboard a special train arranged for by officials of the line which owned the Alaska. Others left Eureka last night.

The authorities made plans to hold an inquest today over the 17 bodies in the morgue here.

Explosion Caused Deaths
Some of the deaths were declared by survivors today to have been caused by the explosion of the Alaska's boilers as the ship started sinking. Many of the passengers and members of the crew who were blown into the sea by the explosion, succeeded in again boarding the ship or were rescued by life boats after clinging to wreckage until help arrived. It was said.

So sudden did the tragedy happen that the steamer's crew hardly had time to prepare the life boats and many of those were reported wrecked while being put over the vessel's sides, spilling their human cargo into the icy waters. Politics in old Irish have been enlivened to a considerable extent this week by the announcement of Hon. Augustus Mussie and Charles Todd Noel for township trustees.

The Hon. Augustus tells us he is the only logical candidate because he has a stand in with the County Commissioners and when he is elected the Owensville road will be completely picked. A great scheme, Gus. We suppose the road will be built of sand. We do not know what the platform of Chas. Todd will be yet but judging from the activity of Edward K. Jordan, we presume great things will be done.

Will some one speak a kind word to Leroy McDaniel and suggest to him that he would be welcomed into the race for trustee. Leroy's political equilibrium was so badly shattered at the last township election that he will need to be encouraged.

If Roy Todd and Augustus can be elected which we fear will not happen, then, oh then, we may expect a bridge near a certain residence and a great saving of cemetery funds as we hear the boys have some new ideas as to the care of cemeteries.

Boys, here is a good opportunity for a good campaign manager, one who is a live wire. L. N. HARNES.

C—"Three Jokers," A new Christie Comedy.
D—Overture—"The Golden Scepter"—Eastland Orchestra—Wm. Spitzer, Director.
E—Goldwyn presents "Earthbound," A Drama in 8 Acts.
Two men built their lives on this creed: "no God—no Sin—no Future Life."
It flung one headlong into the future he scoffed at. It put the other on trial for his life.

Then the murdered man came back from his world of shadows. Back to his wife and the woman who had invited him to sin.
Passion still held him to the scenes of his transgression. Even in death he could not escape. He was earth-bound!

How far away are the dead? Is the spirit held to earth by its desires? Is there growth and progression—even after the shadowy barrier has been crossed?

Men and women everywhere, stirred by intense personal feeling, have been asking—"Does the personality change with death? How long do the old interests go on?"

AUTO POLO TO BE ONE OF MANY FEATURES OF LUCASVILLE FAIR WHICH OPENS TUESDAY

Foot-ball is rough-and-tumble and difficult for the uninitiated to follow, but auto polo, as it will be played at the Lucasville Fair this week is much more exciting and readily comprehended by the spectators who attend the games.

It is in the action of the fleet racing cars and the smash-ups in which they are frequently involved that the spectators find enjoyment, who are often tossed overboard by the skidding, diving cars. For all the hazards of the game it is seldom that the players are so seriously hurt that substitutes must take their places but it is common for a car to be so wrecked that it must retire from action and another brought on the field.

To add to the confusion of the game, the mufflers of the engines are wide open, and the noise of the popping pistons give auto polo the flavor of a slum battle with a thousand men involved.

In addition to auto polo there will be splendid races at the fair and the exhibits are expected to be the finest since those fairs were inaugurated. With favorable weather the fair is sure to be a big success and new attendance records will be hung up.

BEWARE of PAINTED LENSES

When you buy visor lenses to comply with the new Ohio state automobile headlight law, keep these facts in mind:

The green in the Macbeth Green Visor Lens is fused into the visor and becomes a permanent part of the lens—cannot fade, cannot chip off and cannot wear off.

Caution!

Beware of cheaper inferior lenses that are only painted, as this paint is not permanent and will wash off or wear off. Your lenses then become illegal and you will be subject to penalty for violating the law against glaring headlights.

Glaring Headlights Are Illegal

For the safety of the public and motor car users, the State of Ohio has enacted a new law against glaring headlights. Failure to obey the law brings penalty of arrest, and fine up to $100.

Only those lenses approved by the State Highway Commissioner are authorized by the State. Both Macbeth and Liberty lenses are so approved.

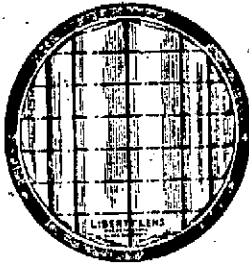

Some so-called legal lenses are not legal in Ohio unless tilted forward so many degrees. Why risk trouble? Just put on Macbeth or Liberty lenses and your headlights are 100% legal always and everywhere.

NOTE:—Macbeth Green Visor and Liberty Lenses are legal in all states. Equip your car with Macbeth or Liberty lenses today. Do not delay. Get yours while the dealer has them.

team Association batters—such is the eventual career of Ewell A. "Red" Russell, former White Sox pitcher, and now stellar outfielder for the Millers.

The story of his rise to fame, with its subsequent loss and recovery, dates back to 1912.

Starting his professional career at Bonham, in northern Texas, that year, Russell's stay in the minors was brief to the utmost. Flashing the year with Fort Worth, the southpaw sensation was bought by the Chicago Americans. Comiskey offered him a three-year contract at the outset because of his belief in the left-hander's ability. He was then 23 years old.

Red got into the limelight at once, pitching the White Sox to 22 victories, while losing but 10 games in his first year. He continued with the Sox until 1919, the climax of his career coming during the 1917 world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants.

In 1918 he lost his effectiveness and in the following year was released outright.

Hogrebe Got No Strength From Foods He Ate

"I never thought it possible for anything to help me like Taulac has until I got the medicine and began taking it," said Rudolph Hogrebe, Jr., a printer, living at 1714 2nd St., Detroit.

"When I ran across Taulac I was suffering from a general break down due to indigestion and no appetite. The little I ate seemed like lead in the pit of my stomach. I could get scarcely any nourishment from my food, and fell off in weight from one hundred and seventy five to one hundred and fifty three pounds. I was bothered a great deal with constipation, too, and was so nervous and restless that I couldn't half sleep at night. Mornings I had a dull, aching, no-account feeling, and actually felt worse than when I went to bed."

"Well, I certainly hit the right medicine when I got Taulac, for in a short while it has rid me of all my troubles. I am eating like a bear, and am gaining back my lost weight. I feel fine all the time, and am glad to tell others about Taulac for it is certainly a great medicine."—Advertisement.

'HOW I MADE WOODROW WILSON PRESIDENT'

Autobiography of William F. McCombs, Whose Revelations Will Astound the Nation!

PRINCETON READY TO DROP WILSON; M'COMBS PUT HIM FORWARD FOR GOVERNOR

As Head of University, He Angered the Trustees by His Czar-like Methods, but on Eve of Dismissal, His Former Pupil, to "Let Him Down Easy," Injected Him Into New Jersey Politics.

Secret Moves Revealed By Which Wilson Was Nominated

"THE WOODROW WILSON CAMPAIGN."

By William F. McCombs

Edited by Louis J. Lang, Editor of the Autobiography of Thomas Collier Platt (Copyright, 1921, by Corlaine Hardy. All rights of reproduction reserved.)

I would have little reason for writing this book, were it not more than a mere discussion of a man's life. I have no desire to be Woodrow Wilson's biographer. I have been urged to write because of my personal contact with his political career, and because of my knowledge of the events connected therewith.

I knew Mr. Wilson twenty-six years. I sat under him at Princeton University. I know how he became Governor and twice President. I was manager by personal appointment of Mr. Wilson's pre-nomination Presidential campaign. I was chairman of the Democratic National Committee of 1912, which conducted the campaign that resulted in his election.

I was intimate with his conduct for his entire official career. In writing this book I write, not as an enemy of Woodrow Wilson, but as an opponent of the subversion of the American Constitution and the destruction of our system of Government, through vanity and greed for individual power.

"Wilson An Opportunist"

I consider Woodrow Wilson one of the most remarkable developments of modern times. Brilliant in mind, and a master of history and rhetoric, I would not call him learned. He was actuated always by the purpose of the moment. He was an opportunist. Slave of manner, he constantly strove to advance himself. He saw only himself—and only his personal individual exaltation. He played the game as an expert whist player—always to win—never to lose. Winning was his passion.

He was brutal in victory. He was the first to run when threatened with defeat. There is evidence of this in his begging me to withdraw his name as a Presidential candidate at the Baltimore convention of 1912, when Champ Clark was leading him slightly. Had I yielded to his panic at that time there would have been no President Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was insensible of moral or political obligations. He recognized no debt to the giver. He was adroit in conduct and skilled in the use of language. His English was a model of classicism. His strength lay in his cleverness of expression. His oratorical outbursts were at times dazzling. One becomes intoxicated with the veneer of his intellectuality.

The Wilson ideal was Alexander Hamilton, the Federalist—not Thomas Jefferson, the Democrat. Like Hamilton, he believed in a limited monarchy—a life tenure for the President.

He was an advocate of the British Government system. He taught it at Princeton University. While President, he regarded himself not only as President, but Premier. Had he dared, he would have prorogued Congress as the King of England prorogues Parliament.

"Most Audacious President"

It was during the Paris Peace Conference that he proclaimed himself Premier of the United States. His was the most audacious proclamation ever emitted by an American President. He overrode Congress and made it a creature of his whims. His juggernaut crushed those who dared oppose him. He imperiously strode a world-wide stage. He was fortunate in that there is no American Constitutional provision for the retirement of the President from office when repudiated by popular vote. This alone saved him from earlier oblivion.

Mr. Wilson absorbed a great and powerful party—the Democratic party. It has been more often out of than in power, but it always set a continuity of principle. Long before his first inauguration for President, I found that the Democratic party must go, except as a vehicle for his will.

No man in history ever survived who had the boldness and the audacity to employ his practices, and none ever will.

W. F. McCombs

PART I.

(Enters Princeton—Finds Wilson "Cold, Distant, Intellectual"—McCombs Prevents University President's Deposition by Grooming him for Governor of New Jersey—"To Let Him Down Easy"—Elected, Wilson Repudiates Bargain To Make James Smith, Jr., United States Senator—McCombs Predicts Wilson Will Be President of the United States.)

In the Fall of 1894 I went to Princeton University. Never having been in the East, I had a great feeling of loneliness. In addition, I was not satisfied that Princeton was the place for me, my first choice being Harvard. My family, however, having more precedence than I did, preferred Princeton. I acceded to their wishes.

Some time in October of that year, I became a member of the Southern Club, an organization of about a hundred. Shortly thereafter the club held a meeting. Woodrow Wilson, but recently called to a professorship, was invited to speak. After the meeting, as we came out of the door, I happened to fall in with him. We walked across the campus together. I accompanied him to his home. The point of contact between us was that we were both from the South.

Admires Wilson, But Finds Him Cold

I made inquiries about Princeton. We discussed the relative merits of various institutions. He told me that if he ever became a professor anywhere else than Princeton, he would go South. Being fresh from the South myself and somewhat provincial, the idea impressed me greatly.

For the next two years I came in contact with Professor Wilson occasionally. My admiration for his intellect grew, although he always impressed me as a cold and distant person, with a sort of affected vanity.

During the last two years of my course at college I elected to take all Professor Wilson's courses, which included jurisprudence, politics and Eng-

HIS "KINGMAKER"

"In May, 1910, it became more obvious that Mr. Wilson was to be dismissed at the June commencement. I happened to be in Princeton during that month. I suggested to two members of the board of trustees hostile to him, 'Why not let Wilson down easy by getting him the nomination for Governorship of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket?'"

—McCOMBS

NOTE BY EDITOR OF AUTOBIOGRAPHY

This book depicts a double tragedy. The chief actors were Princeton University men. One was an instructor; the other was his pupil. Entranced by the artificial intellectuality of the instructor, the pupil conceived and executed the idea of making him President of the United States.

The President not only spurned his political maker, but treated as outcasts many others who sacrificed their near-all to elevate him to the office of America's Chief Executive. The President-maker went to an early grave. The President was repudiated by the American people. Retribution came but a few months before the President-maker gave up his life.

Who so diggett a pit, shall fall therein,
And he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him." Proverbs 26:27.

LOUIS JAY LANG,
Princeton, '81.

lish common law. His lectures on jurisprudence and politics, to my mind, far excelled any courses given in the university. Jurisprudence and politics involved the theoretical side of the law. The course in English common law involved concrete and definite principles.

It is not surprising that Professor Wilson, when he was admitted to the bar, did not continue in the practice. His disposition would be against the detail of preparation and the turmoil and struggle of actual litigation in court.

On the whole, I think I got more from Professor Wilson's courses than from any others, with the possible exception of Professor Bliss' Petri's courses in English and Aesthetics.

After leaving Princeton, I went to the law school at Harvard, and later to New York to practice. I saw little more of Professor Wilson until he was elected president of the university chiefly by those in the board of trustees, including Moses Taylor Pyne, James W. Alexander and others, with all of whom he later quarreled.

Wilson's Czar-Like Methods at Princeton

The burden of the original complaint in the board of trustees at Princeton against University President Wilson was that he announced policies and programmes totally irrespective of the board of trustees, which was contrary to all of the traditions of the university.

Mr. Pyne and others had been largely responsible for the later development of the university and had contributed vast sums for its support. Mr. Pyne lived in Princeton. He actually gave much of his time to the personal supervision of its activities. Therefore, as in the majority of the educational institutions of the country, the board of trustees had laid down the policies and programmes of the university and had arranged its financial resources. The President was presumed merely to cooperate as the chief administrative officer of the university. Thus the schism began, and this a little over a year after Professor Wilson became president of the university.

In 1908 Mr. Wilson, unknown to the board of trustees, announced a programme which involved the abolition of the student clubs of Princeton and the division of the university into a group of units called quads, after the English fashion.

Princeton Ready To Drop Wilson

In each quad a certain number of students was to be assigned, without reference to their preference in the matter. They were to dine together and necessarily to be thrown together. This was Mr. Wilson's idea of the establishment of a more complete democracy.

THE REAL WILSON

"I knew Mr. Wilson twenty-six years. I sat under him at Princeton University. I know how he became Governor and twice President. I write not as an enemy of Woodrow Wilson, but as an opponent of the subversion of the American Constitution and the destruction of our system of Government through vanity and greed for individual power."

—McCOMBS.

The objections to the plan, naturally, were the destruction of property values of several hundred of thousands of dollars invested in the student eating clubs, and the enormous expense in connection with the establishment of quads. A further objection was that the quad system must fail, because men who are unmenial will not be associated. Compulsion would have a net result of the attendance at meals only of persons who might possibly be socially congenial.

Nevertheless, the plan had its elements of strength. While I did not agree with Mr. Wilson's idea of the quad system, I did agree with the general idea of further democratizing Princeton and breaking up small groups and cliques.

The fundamental difficulty in the matter, however, was that Mr. Wilson had elaborated an entire plan and published it without consultation with the constituted authorities, the board of trustees.

I was in Princeton when the matter reached a fever point. I called on the president. I suggested that he might work out his plan if he called his board of trustees more into consultation. This he agreed to do. But, in some way or other, at the time his nature rebelled against it.

Later on, and after the discussion of the quad system had been taken up among the Alumni, the question of a graduate school arose. Everyone favored a graduate school. Colonel William Cooper Proctor, of Cincinnati, offered to provide the funds. The question arose as to its location. A majority of the members of the board of trustees and Dean West were in favor of its location at some distance from the campus, in order that the graduate students might not be disturbed by the enthusiasm of the undergraduates.

Mr. Wilson favored the idea of erecting the graduate school on the campus. To my mind, the location was totally immaterial so long as we were able to avail ourselves of the gift of Mr. Proctor.

Over the location of the graduate school, however immaterial it may seem to the average reader—and, indeed, it has never seemed anything else to me—the discussion grew to such proportions and the feeling of hostility against Mr. Wilson became so great that it was only a question of time until he would be forced by the majority of the board of trustees to surrender the Presidency.

I had kept in close touch with Princeton affairs since graduation. I had, as an officer of the Princeton Club of New York, advised Mr. Wilson thoroughly as to the situation, and had stood in the position of acting, at least in New York, as the link between him and the Alumni.

University Club Snubs President

In 1909 Mr. Wilson, as president of the university, was invited to make a speech at the Princeton Club of New York. The president of the club, who had been opposed to his, was on that evening, fatefully or otherwise, not present. When Mr. Wilson came into the clubhouse he received an exceedingly cold reception, especially from the older men.

Being an officer of the club, I met him at the door and took him in. Noticing that he was not to receive a very cordial reception, and that the attitude was one of great hostility, I took him through a narrow hall, so that he would not have to pass through the main body of the audience, and conducted him to the platform from which he was to speak. The vice-president of the club in his introduction said merely:

We have with us this evening the president of the university, Mr. Wilson.

The vice-president and I were the only other persons on the platform.

After the speech I went up and shook hands with the president. We paused for a moment to see if others would follow. The older men, among whom were several trustees, did not come up. The younger men disliked to volunteer. I conducted Mr. Wilson out by the same secret passage and into the open lobby of the club as the members were filing out. Not over twenty from the gathering of two hundred shook hands with him.

"Coldest Meeting I Ever Attended"

I suggested that we go up to the grill room of the club, where a buffet supper was being served, including liquid refreshments. I was sure that this supper would attract the younger men, and that a better opportunity could be had there to make things a bit more comfortable for him. I left him in the hands of a group of half a dozen younger alumni. He appeared painfully conscious of his position.

Then I went to the officers of the club and various members of the board of governors, all of whom were on the anti-Wilson side of the issue, and stated that he was the guest of the club, invited by action of the board of trustees; that whatever they thought of him, they owed him the courtesy of cordial treatment so long as he was in the club; then when he departed they were at liberty to act as they pleased. I further said that unless this was done, I would resign as an officer of the club.

Whereupon most of the officers and governors went up and greeted him formally. I think it was the coldest meeting of any sort that I ever attended.

In April, 1910, it became apparent that Mr. Wilson was to be deposed from the presidency of Princeton University. I thought such action would produce a serious split in the body of the Alumni and cut off a tremendous support from the university itself. In the second place, I did not see anything in the situation at that time to warrant such action.

Suggested Wilson For Governor

In May, 1910, it became more obvious than ever that Mr. Wilson was to be dismissed at the June commencement. I happened to be in Princeton during that month. I suggested to two members of the board of trustees, hostile to him, that it would be a good thing if Mr. Wilson were nominated for Governor of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket.

Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., of New Jersey, was casting about for a candidate outside the organization who could win. Colonel George Harvey was very enthusiastic about Professor Wilson. He enjoyed the confidence of Senator Smith.

In my conversation with the two Princeton trustees referred to above, I said, "Why not let Wilson down easy by getting him the nomination for the Governorship of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket?"

These trustees were very powerful men. They took the suggestion very heartily. I said no more.

The next I knew, it was common gossip of New Jersey that Wilson would be the candidate. A hundred times newspaper men have inquired of me whether these two Princeton trustees and others did not actually put up the $75,000 required by Senator Smith for the Wilson campaign fund, and whether, as a matter of fact, Cleveland Dodge and others did not refund the $75,000 when Wilson broke with Smith.

In any event, at the commencement in 1910, there was an underground rumor that Mr. Wilson might be relieved of his duties in another way than by formal action of the board at that time.

I went to Europe. Returning in September, on making inquiries, I found that the idea of the nomination of Mr. Wilson had gained great headway, especially among what were termed the reactionaries in New Jersey.

Subsequently a meeting was held at the Lawyers' Club in New York at which his nomination was virtually agreed upon. This meeting was attended by Mr. Wilson, George Harvey, James H. Nugent, Robert S. Hudspeh, representing Senator Smith, Robert J. Thompson, former Congressman Eugene Kincaid, Robert Lindabury and Milan Ross.

Mr. Wilson agreed to run for Governor. Senator Smith controlled a majority of the delegates to the convention which met at Trenton, October 10, 1911.

Senator Smith Raised $75,000

The progressive element in New Jersey violently opposed the nomination of Mr. Wilson. Among them were William Hughes and Mayor Gregory, of Orange. Some gentlemen from Newark, where Senator Smith resided, were at the doorway of the convention hall. They refused admission to progressive delegates. A number of personal encounters ensued.

Mr. Wilson was nominated easily. He made his speech of acceptance. He embarked upon his campaign under the management of Senator Smith, James H. Nugent and Colonel Harvey.

The progressive candidate for Governor was George L. Record. The Republican candidate was Vivian Lewis.

Ample funds were provided for the campaign, $75,000 being raised by Senator Smith and his friends. Mr. Wilson made a magnificent stump tour and was elected by a plurality of over 49,000.

After his nomination on October 10, I sent the Governor-elect the following telegram:

"The people of New Jersey are to be congratulated on your nomination for Governor, and Princeton has produced the next President of the United States."

In writing that telegram, I had in mind the very great probability of Democratic success through the country, of a Democratic lower house in Congress, and the general feeling that the Taft administration was falling into a state of collapse.

I had also in mind the fact that Mr. Wilson would prove intellectually superior to any candidate who might be elected as Governor from any of the States, and that his terms of campaigning could be turned to such an account that he would attract the attention of the entire country.

His election was so impressive that it received very general notice; but the vast majority of people throughout the country viewed it as an experiment in higher education. Tensely, their general sentiment might have been expressed in the phrase:

"Watch the professor!"

After this inauguration, Mr. Wilson immediately proceeded to his programme.

Wilson Fights Senator Smith

Everything went along very amiably until the question of the election of a United States Senator came up. Under the then very effective primary law an informal primary had been held a year before. Only two men participated, both of whom were relatively unknown: James E. Martine and Allen McDermott.

Very few voters paid any attention to the law at all, considering it practically a dead letter. It did not provide that it should be binding on the Legislature.

Soon after Governor Smith took office, there were rumors that Senator Smith desired to be elected Senator. It was understood also that Colonel Harvey would stand. No mention was made of James E. Martine, who had received a majority of the votes in the informal primary.

Mr. Wilson came out square against Senator Smith, but expressed no preference as to candidates. The Smith legislative forces were gathering. It seemed that he would be elected under ordinary circumstances.

Then Governor Wilson took the position that the primary candidate, even though the election was informal, should be the choice of the party. At the same time he saw the necessity of winning away from Senator Smith the organization that was behind him.

He, thereupon, brought leaders into consultation and made appointments that were satisfactory to them, gradually Smith's power was withdrawn from him and in a short time he had lost control of his organization, his influence being practically limited to Essex County. Mr. Martine was elected.

NEXT SUNDAY—Governor Wilson asks McCombs to manage his Presidential primary campaign—"Let the Prophet Fulfill the Prophecy." McCombs embarks with meagre funds—Wilson's first speech shocks him—McCombs introduces McAdoo to Wilson—"Everybody is against Wilson," said McAdoo.

Canada Is Suspicious

 one of the part of the United States. The league of nations recognized the British dominions as separate nations but the United States always regarded the various parts of the British empire as being grouped in a single vote.
 Deals Directly with British Government

Somewhat, the same attitude is to be adopted here at the disarmament conference. The Washington government will not issue special invitations to the various nations in the British empire but it will deal directly with the British government. If the latter has in its delegation representatives of the British dominions, that fact of course, is something to be hoped for in order that the problems affecting Canada, New Zealand and Australia in the Pacific may be better understood but in the end the signature of Great Britain alone will be sought as the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with the various states of the British empire.

Even if the British delegation doesn't include representatives of the British dominions, the conference will from time to time hear arguments from any of the British states whose position might be affected. Thus the Canadian premier was often given an audience in the Paris peace parlors and was in frequent conference with President Wilson and the heads of other governments when matters vital to Canada were being considered. But consultations with Canada or Australia or other British dominion representatives will be along the same lines as conferences with Holland or Belgium or other countries which have asked for an opportunity to be present when matters affecting them are discussed.

Agreements Must Be Unanimous
 Secretary Hughes emphasized the fact that the powers invited to the conference are sovereign and that any agreements made by them must be unanimous. In making the agenda or program for the conference the same rules will be followed. Incidentally, the United States will seek information from other powers as to questions that should be included in the agenda and will make some suggestions of her own. There is every expectation that the agenda can be completed by exchanges of cables before the conference begins on November 11. All the diplomatic representatives of the various powers will be discussing the agenda informally for the next several weeks but if the program is still incomplete it can be finished after the conference actually begins. Any power, moreover, will be privileged to suggest additions to the agenda even after the conference has begun but unless all the powers agree to exclude the new subjects, they must be excluded.

Ship Disaster

Life Boats Went Down With Ship
 J. H. Moss and J. L. Villin, both of Chicago, said they reached a life boat which had been swept off the decks. Other life boats, they declared, went down with the ship.

Captain Harry Holey, of the Alaska, preferred to go to his death rather than leave his command, passengers reported. When Mr. Moss removed a life belt he was wearing and offered it to Captain Holey telling him to save himself, witnesses said the captain walked away replying:
 "I prefer to go down with my ship."

Although a veteran in the service, Captain Holey was only forty years old. He assumed command of the Alaska three weeks ago and this was his third trip.
 Stories of heroism again were told today by survivors of the ill-fated steamer. Captain S. Snoddy and the crew of the Anox were commended for their rescue work. Accompanied by three rescue volunteers, second officer Andrew Sinclair, of the Anox, took a life boat from the Alaska and within 20 minutes rescued 20 persons clinging to wreckage in the water.

South Webster Wins

A crowd of 500 spectators were on hand to see the Bertram Stars of Portsmouth, go down in defeat before the South Webster team, at South Webster, Sunday afternoon. The score was 7 to 0. The biggest feature of the game was the hitting of LeMaster, who made four doubles in four trips to the plate.

The batteries for South Webster were Powers and Branton, and Wallace, Scisson and Lendster for Bertram Stars.

No Chance For Chance

CHICAGO, August 8.—Wm. York, president of the Chicago National League base ball club, when told of a statement made by Fred Chance at Los Angeles, in which he expressed a willingness to return to baseball, the manager of the Cubs said, "The Chicago club naturally thanks Mr. Chance very cordially, but it so happens that the Chicago club has a manager who will continue as manager and who is such a good manager that the club should be congratulated on possessing him. That manager is Bill Killmer."

NEGRO STILL HELD IN JAIL

James C. Vanderhouse, negro, 24, is still behind the bars at Vanceburg, Ky., for attempting to grab Miss Catherine Haywood, age 20 years, a member of a prominent family at Firebrick, Ky., which is four miles west of South Portsmouth.

At seven o'clock Saturday morning Miss Haywood went from her home to one of the outbuildings. When she opened the door, she saw the negro standing in the corner of the building, laughing. She screamed, and, ne-corting to her version of the affair, he made an attempt to grab her, still laughing. She continued to scream, as she ran back to the house, and several men, attracted by her cries, ran to the scene. The negro fled by a field and caught him in some bushes, where he had hidden.

Vanderhouse says that he is from Atlanta, Ga., and made no attempt to molest Miss Haywood, stating that his presence in the building merely wood.

It is said that a number of the male residents of Firebrick tried to assault the negro after his capture but were restrained until Sheriff Stone could be summoned from Vanceburg. Vanderhouse was taken to the county jail at a field and placed behind the bars. When questioned the negro could give no satisfactory excuse for his presence in the vicinity, but protested that he meant no harm to Miss Haywood.

Oak Hill Man Is Killed

A deplorable accident in which an Oak Hill man lost his life occurred near Ironton Sunday night about 10 o'clock. John Jones with five companions were on their way to Ironton when some part of the auto in which they were riding, broke, and Jones was thrown through the windshield. His throat was cut by the brown glass and he bled to death before help could reach him. With him were Dave Davis, Charles (Casey) McGowan, Ed Metzler, Tom Morgan and Russell Poole, all of Oak Hill.

Jones was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tom Jones and was unmarried. Besides his parents, three sisters and one brother survive him.

LAWRENCE FITCH

Republican Candidate for Mayor of New Boston
 Primary August 9.

August 8, 1921
 The Portsmouth Daily Times—The information has come to me that it is being rumored that I am in favor of annexation. I want to say this is politics and not truth. I was one of the committee of three that made one trip to Ironton and helped prepare the legislation that went before the County Commissioners and had their petition dismissed. I am opposed to annexation. Don't be deceived by a few political rumors. I was born and reared in the city and village. My past record is clean—an open book, which speaks for itself. Don't be deceived. Vote for Lawrence Fitch and stay out of Portsmouth, and have a better village and pay less taxes.

Two World Records

DES MOINES, Ia., August 8.—The Des Moines team, Western League, set the world records in a game here yesterday against the St. Joseph team. It made more assists than any previous record for nine innings, being credited with 23. With the 27 putouts, its total chances for the game were sixty, which is also claimed to be a record.

Not an error was made by the team. The shortstop had 13 assists. The three Des Moines outfielders only handled the ball three times during the game.

William Evans, who is ill at his home on Union street is considerably improved.

HAMDEN

R. H. Ankron vs. John E. Hunt. Plaintiff says that he is owner of a coal mine located on the E. & O. R. R. one and one-half miles east of Dundas and that June 1, 1916, he employed the defendant as foreman of the mine at a stipulated day wage, other contracts were made up until April 1, 1920, the plaintiff says that he and the defendant mutually agreed to abandon the contract and the plaintiff employed the defendant as mine foreman at a wage. Plaintiff says that he loaned the defendant money and advanced him money and supplies and that there is due the plaintiff from defendant $200.00 for which he sues. The plaintiff, formerly of Hamden, now a resident of Wellston, is represented by his son, R. H. Ankron of Wellston. The defendant resides east of McArthur.

Ada P. Chetta vs. The Elko Colliery Co., et al. Carrie Morgan Wright and John B. Smith, two of the defendants, deny each and every allegation in the plaintiff's petition except that they claim some interest in the property.

In the cross petition the defendants say that June 16, 1917, they leased the No. 2 coal pit in Elko to Morgan for 20 years. The defendants are that the contract provided for a royalty of 18 cents per ton on all mine run coal and for a payment of $3,000 a year. Upon giving notice the lease could be cancelled and if at any time the mining became impracticable or impossible to mine at a profit. Defendants say that The Elko Colliery Co. has paid only a part of the royalties, leaving a balance due for $147,583 for coal during the years 1917-18-19-20. Defendants say that the plaintiff, The Elko Colliery Co., is indebted to them $7,292.43 with interest for which amount they ask judgment. These defendants further say that there is now pending in this court certain action wherein these answering defendants are plaintiffs and The Elko Colliery Co. is defendant in which action these answering defendants seek to have the lien foreclosed and the property sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of their debts. Defendants ask that their lien be declared the first and best lien on the property, the proceeds of the sale of the property be applied first to the payment of the defendant due. This mine is located between Hamden and Zaleski on the E. & O. R. R. Feilberg & Goehagan of Cincinnati and O. E. Vollenweider of McArthur, attorneys for plaintiff.

With Reservations made for horse drawn vehicles.

The Main Grove Is Already Literally Covered

With attractions, shows, tents, circle swing, ferris wheel and exhibits of all kinds — and, judging from last year, every inch of the main grove will be needed for the comfort and convenience of the people. Thus it is apparent to all that parking space is becoming limited and it is wholly to encourage folks to use the new space provided, that 50 cents is being charged for the north part of the grounds where space is so inadequate to meet the needs.

The Association is quite confident that the people will find the free parking space much more convenient and satisfactory than the old way of jamming and crowding. The new turnstiles, too, they believe will make it easier and quicker to handle the crowds.

People from the South are urged to enter at first gate. Those from Miller's Run and north to go in at taxicab and vehicle entrance. If this is done most everyone will be entering and leaving in the same direction and this feature alone will enable everyone to leave the grounds in a more orderly and very much quicker manner.

"After Your Child's Bath Mothers Should Use Sykes Comfort Powder," says Nurse Soper

Peckskill, N. Y. — "I am sending you the picture of a dear little boy on whom I have used Sykes Comfort Powder with wonderful results. In my work as a nurse I have never found any powder so soothing and healing."

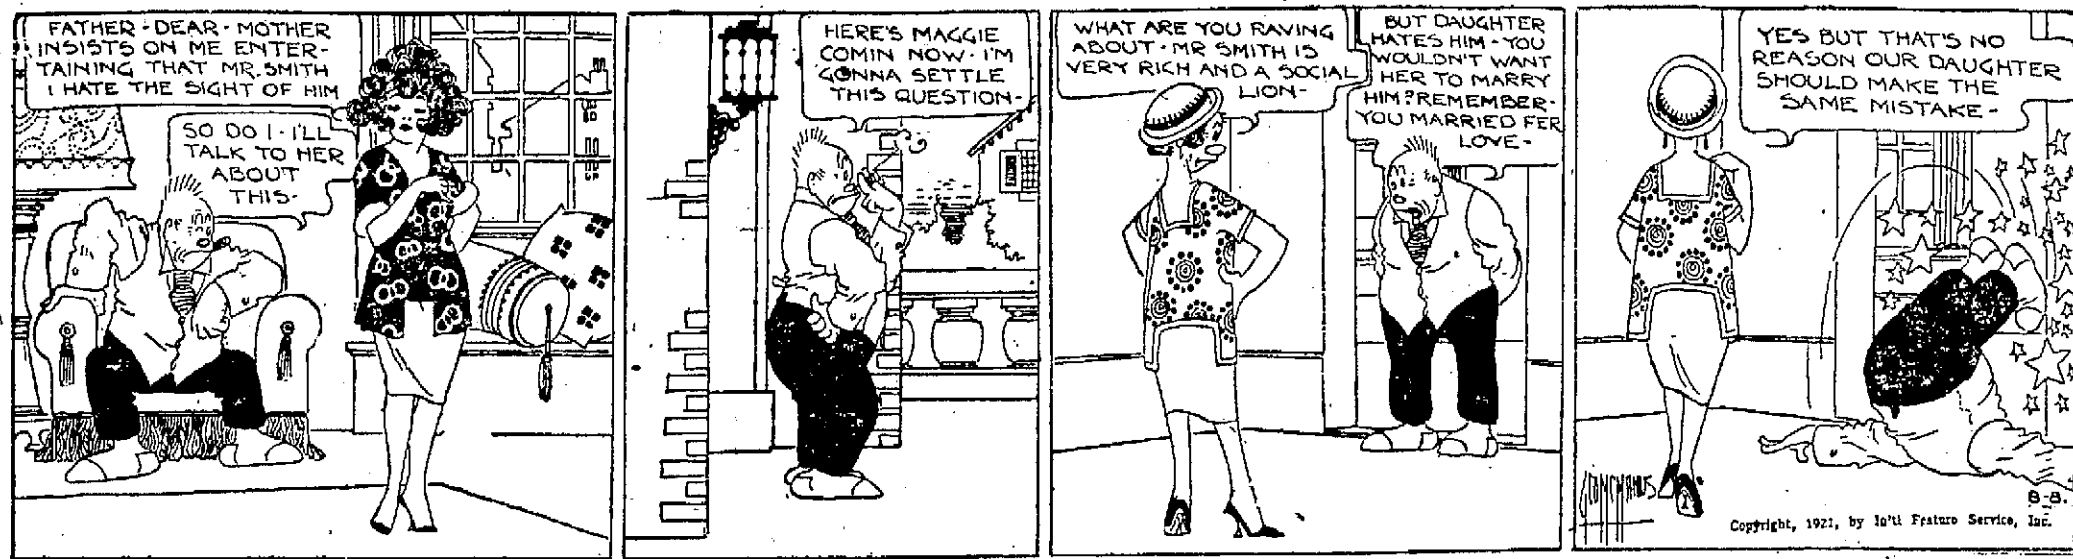

When used daily after a baby's bath it keeps the skin free from chafing, rashes, scalding and soreness. There is nothing like it." — Mrs. Sadie A. Soper, Nurse, Peckskill, N. Y.

GIANT OWNERS PAY HEFTY SUM FOR MEUSEL

The story has leaked out that the giant owners paid Philadelphia $75,000 for Outfielder Bob Meusel.

McGraw gave Meusel $8,000 and an automobile for signing. And since Meusel has joined the Giants they dropped seven games out of twelve.

Theodore Doty, candidate for nomination for Mayor on the Republican ticket, has been a resident of Portsmouth for more than thirty-five years. He has been successful in business life and always active in civic and public affairs. He has served the city faithfully, both as a member of Council and on the School Board, and in many other municipal activities has become familiar with public affairs and the city's needs.

While he has been a Republican of the stalwart type, he is not allied to any interest or faction, and if nominated and elected he will be the Mayor for all of the people.

He stands for the most rigid economy in the city's expenditures and for the efficient management of its affairs.

He will urge that the whole city, including the new annexed territory, such as Sciotoville, be given equal treatment and share in municipal lights, water, police and fire protection.

Mr. Doty recognizes the fine influence that women have in the ballot, and will see that they are given a voice and place in the city's administration. He will invite their aid in making Portsmouth a cleaner city, to extend and develop its parks, provide a comprehensive system of sanitary sewerage, encourage markets and otherwise make the city a better place in which to live.

Mr. Doty is progressive and has confidence in the growth and future of Portsmouth and recognizes that the city is destined to be a great commercial and manufacturing center, and he will do all that he can to shape its public affairs to meet and encourage this growth and future.

PRIMARIES TOMORROW

Tomorrow is Primary Day. Had you forgotten it?

Judging from the lack of interest being shown in it many probably have. However the three cornered mayoralty contest on the Republican ticket has aroused considerable interest and election officials will be prepared to handle many voters should they put in their appearance at the various precincts.

Chief interest in the primary of course centers in the mayoralty contest with Attorney J. T. Purdum, Representative George Matthews and Theo Doty as the candidates. Each candidate and his friends have been working diligently and they are confident of victory tomorrow.

Much interest is also being shown in the fight for the Republican nomination for city solicitor. The candidates are Attorneys Sherrard M. Johnson and Walter L. Dickey.

They have been working industriously and look for a substantial vote.

Much interest is also being shown in the race for the nomination of city treasurer being staged by the present incumbent A. J. Fuller and his opponent J. J. Davidson.

For the Republican nomination for municipal judge, W. R. Sprague and Alex Woodrow are staging an interesting race.

Nine councilmen will be nominated, one from each of the six wards and three at large.

There were originally six candidates for the places at large but the list has been reduced to five by the withdrawal of Howard K. Moore. Those remaining in the fight are Charles C. Horr, Emma Cramer, Charles F. Schirman, Frank L. Sikes and Howard Rungman.

There also are contests in all the wards except the new Sixth, which comprises the Sciotoville territory, where E. A. Stedman is the sole candidate. There is a warm scrap on in the first where Joe Diener opposes Fred Blumberg and in the second George M. Osborn and Leslie Klenour are the contestants. Salem Shaw and James M. Bauer are the candidates in the third and Charles T. Bond is opposed in the fourth. Floyd Unger and Ed Burton are measuring strength in the new Fifth Ward.

Election officials were notified Monday to be at their voting places Tuesday from 5:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. central standard time.

Arrangements have been made for a fairly heavy vote as hundreds of women are expected to exercise their long looked for voting prerogative at the various precincts tomorrow.

Democratic candidates have no opposition and as a result this vote is expected to be extremely light.

MAY ELIMINATE ROAD CROSSINGS

Supt. H. C. Weller of this division of the N. & W. and the county commissioners Saturday visited the Otway vicinity and looked over the situation there with a view of eliminating the three dangerous road crossings between Otway and Laurel Hill, where several persons have been killed by trains the past few years.

To eliminate the crossings it will be necessary to change the county road to the north side of the railroad tracks for a distance of about a mile. The plan is looked upon favorably by the officials and the improvement will probably go through.

The Evangelists And Preachers

Editor Portsmouth Times—I see by your Saturday issue that another evangelist, or his spokesman, has been pitching into the preachers again. This time it is Evangelist Neighbor, at Sciotoville, who does not seem to be neighborly, as Jesus used that word, according to his zealousologist. He says: "Our brother Neighbor hits straight from the shoulder, and is absolutely fearless in the ministry of the word." Hits straight from the shoulder, eh? Well, that's the way sluggers usually do. And "is absolutely fearless in the ministry of the word," which means, I suppose, that he copies some Bible texts with his sturs at the church and the preachers; perhaps says some things which would not look well in print, but please the rabble, and tickle self-righteous church members, as he gives it to those who do not see things as they do. We are not sure that brother Neighbor is so neighborly as this, but it sounds like it, when his reporter goes on to add: "How badly such preachers are needed in these days of apostasy. Such men are few in number these days." Measuring view of the church and the ministry, isn't it? Sounds as though the writer had the spiritual dyspepsia. Lay off your blue goggles, brother critic, and maybe your fellow Christians will not look so spitted to you. Your Pharisaism and pessimism remind me of the old blue-stocking Scotch woman, who was berating all other Christians, and reading their out of the kingdom of heaven. Finally some one said to her, "I suppose you think that no one will be saved but you and John?" Her husband said, "Yes, and sometimes I have my doubts about John."

Next we are told, "there is none of this modern destructive higher criticism preached in these meetings." No, yet let there be! Nobody has more to say about higher criticism than the average evangelist—these little Billy

KLIM POWDERED MILK

Pure, fresh milk in powdered form—milk for the entire family
FOR SALE AT GOOD GROCERY AND DRUG STORES

Spell it backwards

Dear Dolly—I am writing to you for a little advice. I am a girl 15 years of age. I have several girl friends which do not have much to do with one another.

One will ask me to meet her at her home and another will ask me to meet her at her home and etc. until all have asked me. I like them all and try to treat them all the same and be with them all at the same time but before we part to go home there is some how always a quarrel. Now Dolly what am I to do if I go with one and not the rest they will say I like her the best and I can't make them understand. Also which is the more fashionable white slippers or sport oxford?

DIMPLES.

Judging from your letter, all of you are afflicted with a little selfishness. You may mean to be kind, but you do not trouble yourselves with view. Study the persons around you and try to understand the secrets behind the sad face or the brave smile. Love to love your fellowmen, divide your time with each. If they are not congenial, and ignore their ugly remarks. Slippers and oxfords are equally popular, the latter are more servicable.

Troubled—You sent the stamp, but failed to give me your address. Any man who tries to impress you by saying that he will go wrong if you do not marry him, is made of poor stuff. It is a ridiculous statement. Do not marry a man with poor health, unless you have a physician's statement that such a union would be both safe and wise.

Miss Wise—Please give me an inexpensive recipe for chocolate ice cream also orange ice.

MRS. J. C. L.

3 eggs, one cup fresh milk, 2 cups evaporated milk, one cup heavy cream, one cup thin cream, one and one half cups sugar, four squares bitter chocolate and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Scald milk with grated chocolate in double boiler. Add to well beaten eggs and sugar. Cook in double boiler until thick. Remove from stove and cool. Add cream and freeze.

Orange Ice—Boil two cups sugar

CHILICOTHE TEAM BEAT ALL STARS, 8 TO 7

Text's poor pitching coupled with some loose work on the team by his supporters enabled the B. & O. crew from Chillicothe to come from behind and gain the decision over Gabe's All Stars in a tight combat at the Millbrook yard Sunday afternoon, the winners clinching off the victory by showing the winning market over the pan in the tenth round, making the final count 8 to 7.

It was an uphill fight for the visitors from the start as our boys tramped the neck of Losh who started on the hill for the enemy, at the outset, picking his delivery for a trio of tallies in the opening round and increased their lead to five in the third, which saw the finish of Mr. Losh as he was led to the stable and Johnson, a nervous little southpaw took up the running. He did a good job of it, too, yielding but six scattered hits and two scores the rest of the way.

Test got by handsomely for four rounds and when the enemy began to tamper with his offerings in the fifth and registered a brace of tallies it was thought the "Big Boy" would come through and protect the safe lead piled up by his teammates.

He was not equal to the occasion, however, for he blew right and left in the sixth, which was a fat round for the opposition, who registered four tallies. The visitors scored another in the seventh off Test and knotted the count at all seven. Then he was chased and "Doc" Baughman finished him out. The sidewheeler allowed and hit in the last three innings and would not have been scored upon but for a low pitch which got away from Sully. Targee, who was rooting on third taking quick advantage of the misplay and scooted home with the run which proved the winner.

In the first inning after Schultz went out on his roller to first, Pierce walked and Naudin shot a single over second. Smith walked, filling the slot.

and then Lewis waited one to deep center which drove in the lead. Barber fanned but Stuten hunted safe. Sully and Stubby's wild heave and Barber's two ply shot accounted for one out of Johnson in the fifth and walk to Sully and Pierce's clout to left for a base registered the seventh and last run. With two on Sully fanned for the third out. Losh got by the second in safety but in the third another at-bat was staged which produced two markers. Smith and Lewis scoring on Barber's hard smush to the left field fence for the loose's in the sixth. The score:

McDermott Beaten, 23-1

Waverly, Aug. 8.—Pounding the offerings of three pitchers Ballance, Spence and Doherty, to a fare-you-well, the fast Waverly ball team again won another victory at the Waverly park Sunday afternoon by trouncing McDermott to the tune of 23-1.

The Waverly players were never in better form and not only excelled the visitors in fielding but proved their strength at the bat by knocking out twenty-five hits. Ballance started the game for McDermott but the Waverly sluggers soon got to him and in the sixth he retired and Spence was set to the mound to stop the onslaught. Thirteen safe hits were secured off Ballance's deliver, six of them being in succession. Three hits were allowed by Spence in the seventh and he, too, retired in favor of Doherty who finished the game. Doherty was unable to hold them and touched up for ninth safe singles. Waverly players had their real batting eye and it would have taken the best team in those parts to have stopped them.

The visitors were at the mercy of the Waverly pitcher, Chas. Lucas, who held them down to three stringy hits and when he saw they had no chance, Mascoe was given a chance to perform and it was off his delivery that McDermott hunched three hits and sent their only run of the game over the rubber in the last frame. Hal Lucas stayed on the mound, they would have been kalsomined.

Keyser made the only error for Waverly but redeemed himself the same frame by picking up a hot granular, forcing the runner out at second and throwing the batter out at first, thereby getting a putout and assist in the same play.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

TWO AUTOMOBILE TRIPS

Meanwhile, Cherry in her corner of Hamden & Sons progressive store was busily fitting hats onto eager customers' heads. Because she did feel a wee bit tired after the festivities it seemed as if every woman and child in Wellsburg were bent on getting their heads adorned that morning.

Arthur Hamden did not put in an appearance at all, and Cherry saw poor old Mr. Hamden tearing about the place like a rudder without its right wing.

Finally, towards the end of the morning, he came up to where his milliner was deep in persuading one of the town's elite that she looked simply charming in the particular hat she was trying on and should buy it if she got the spot before someone else did. Mr. Hamden drew back a few feet to wait until the bargaining was finished, then he entered Cherry and explained to her that Arthur was under the weather that day and had begged off coming down to the office. Unfortunately there was a man to be seen on most important business before closing time. His house was midway between Wellsburg and the next town and would Cherry mind very much driving the car over for him, as he knew nothing about running the darned thing, and didn't want to fool with them, anyhow.

Cherry smilingly agreed to do so. She felt that a bunch of air would be exhaled herself. The day was a long one and it had been rather trying, and filled with gratitude, Mr. Hamden told off to make his arrangements before starting out.

Beth Willers strolled in to see Cherry, in the meanwhile, and the two girls gossiped and discussed the fun of the night before at length.

"It was just the loveliest time ever Cherry, dear. And it's specially good to know that you got such an affair. You know old Mrs. Hamden never would let her children give honest to goodness parties. She's the queerest woman in some ways. Sort of joy-killing, I think. And you know that that great big, wonderful, old house was built for feet to dance through and romp in."

"Your me gas," answered Cherry readily. "But I'd as soon think of romping there as I would of flying to the moon, Beth. There's not one teeny bit of real joyful feeling in the entire house, 'cept in dear old Aunt Phoebe. And no one dares be gay—not for long."

"Well, you just keep on giving parties and you sure will break the solemn spell that hangs over the house Cherry. Take my word for it."

"I'll do my best, Beth, and I'm sure that every one had the best time last night. It makes me feel happy that they did, too."

"Poor old Ned, he must have hated to fly off to business somewhere," went on Beth. "I saw him and Arline Bates, steering for the backwood a few minutes ago. I know he must be as tired as we are."

There Cherry looked up in surprise, not for long.

JUDGE J. P. PURDUM, The People's Candidate for Mayor

JUDGE JAMES P. PURDUM

Knowing that my campaign for the nomination of Mayor is practically at a close, tomorrow, August 9th, being Primary Day, I wish to thank all those that have interested themselves in my campaign.

I regret that I was unable to personally call on every Republican voter during my canvass, as I would like to have done, but I have received encouragement sufficient to believe that I shall be nominated by a safe majority.

However, I am not over confident and shall be in the race until the polls close tomorrow evening.

I want to ask all of those who expect to support my candidacy to be sure and vote and to use their best efforts and influence in my behalf.

Respectfully,

GREAT GAMES IN INDUSTRIAL THIS WEEK

This Week's Schedule

Monday, Aug. 8—Solvay vs. Central Labor.
Tuesday, Aug. 9—Steelplant vs. N. & W.
Wednesday, Aug. 10—Selby vs. Steel Plant.
Thursday, August 11—Central Labor vs. Selby.
Friday, August 12—Steel Plant vs. N. & W.
Saturday, August 13—To be arranged.

History will be written in the Industrial Baseball League this week, for the pennant is likely to be won and lost during the next few days.

Fans generally concede the pennant has been won by the Steel Plant and N. & W. teams, and these two clubs are in a clash today during this week. There is an outside chance that the race will end in a three cornered tie, with the Excelsiors, Steel Plant and N. & W. with a percentage of 600. This, however, is a very remote chance and is not likely to occur, although stranger things have happened.

The real games this week will be between the Steel Plant and the Railroaders and the crowds that will jam the playing field will form a suitable setting for a Pathe Weekly or Fox special. The fans can depend upon some real rooting from now on, for interest in the league is at fever heat and it will no doubt last until the issue is decided.

The Railroaders and Steelmen will clash on Tuesday and Friday evenings and both teams will be out for "victory." However, there is no question but the games will be struggles between real gentlemen and no trouble whatever is anticipated. The umpires will be Jack Harbage and Frank "Peggy" Moore, with Harbage behind the bat and Moore giving the base decisions. Umpire "Peggy" Moore will be on his feet and far from the maddening crowd—probably over at the Eastern watering places watching the mercurials glide by. President Dan W. Conway, under whose administration the league has enjoyed its most successful season, is to be congratulated upon the selection of Mr. Moore as one of the umpires. "Peggy" Moore is as honest as the day is long and knows the game from A to Z and above all has the respect and confidence of the players.

So, fans, come out and watch the fun—for it is going to be fast and furious all the way, and no prophet has yet come forth with any prognostications as to which team would land the gold. But what the best team is—that's the real way to look at it.

BOXER DIES

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Earl Welch, 20 years of age, died here today of a fractured skull sustained Thursday when knocked to the floor in a boxing match with Harold Myers. Both are of Columbus and were engaged in a friendly bout. Myers is being held by police.

Babe Ruth Day

The N. & W. will run a popular priced excursion to Columbus next Sunday. It will be "Babe Ruth" day there and many local fans are planning to see the great slugger in action.

Tough Picking

The Boston Nationals have run into some tough picking in St. Louis and were beaten Sunday 11 to 0. Right now the Cards are traveling some and are beating a' all corners.

Were Surprised

The fans were given a big surprise yesterday when Kent was sent to the bat for St. Louis in the tenth inning. They did not know he was in the park and after they batted him at the bat they could not figure it out why he was assigned to bench duty. He has been playing bang up ball at second and fielding well.

Business Visitor Here
Lowell N. Barness, of Lucasville, was a business visitor to Portsmouth Saturday.

Officials And Ribald Fans Of Industrial League To Settle Differences On Diamond

What is expected to be the "greatest" ball game ever staged at the Industrial League grounds will take place some time during the week of August 14-20 when the officials of the league managed and captained by Umpire "Peggy" Moore will tackle the team to be known as Ribald Industrial League. Fans managed by Brooks Gowdy and captained by Chick Westphal. The two teams are going at it hammer and tongs and while on the surface one may think it will be an ice cream party the two teams have been glaring daggers at each other ever since it was decided to play and now when the members pass each other friends of both teams fear bloodshed.

Messrs. Gowdy and Westphal have been occupying seats in the grand stand all season, telling the players how to play the game and the officials how to run the organization. These two child, regenerated rabid fans will have a chance to show their wares on the field of action, and unless they wear coats of steel and a breast plate of mangled cast iron they are liable to be hauled home and thence to (Greenland). They are in for the most beautiful bidin' that ever came the way of loud mouthed roosters and their only salvation is to gather together such roosters as Howard Jones, Bob Kyle, et al. in the hope they can make the game interesting for the officials.

President Dan W. Conway will play first base for the officials, with Umpire "Peggy" Moore on the mound. Umpire Jack Harbage will cavort at second, owing to the weakened condition of the cut was treated. George Kelly cracked out his nineteenth homer of the season, driving the ball into the left field bleachers in the sixth inning. Score:

Barnes was hit harder than Alexander but he had better luck in the pinches. Frisch, the Giant's third baseman, was hit over the right eye by a swift grounder off Muesel's bat in the sixth inning and knocked unconscious. ## Surest thing you know!

THEY DO IT!
We spent years experimenting with different blends of tobaccos to obtain

- a new flavor
- a more pleasing aroma
- and to obtain what is more important still—the one thing that smokers have always wished a cigarette would do—

"SATISFY!"
And Chesterfields do "satisfy."

For in Chesterfields the tobaccos—Turkish, and Burley and other choice home-grown varieties—are blended differently—and better—to give you and all smokers that greater measure of cigarette enjoyment.

AN EXCEPTION TO THE RULE

WITH all the clashing and disorder during throughout the world it is pleasant to learn that there is, at least, one country proceeding in an orderly and peaceful way towards reconstruction.

This one country is Poland and according to reports she is making splendid progress in the work of re-habilitation. There are now employed within her borders 340,000 men as against 261,000 in 1920 and 530,000 before the dreadful scourge fell upon her. Of the million and half houses destroyed by battle just one-third have been re-built. Two thousand miles of railway have been constructed and a great port for river navigation is underway at Warsaw and so near to completion that it will be opened partially, at least, before the end of the year.

Coal production, one of the greatest industries, is eighty percent normal. Salt and petroleum output have gone beyond the nation's need and exportation is growing heavy.

The best sign of all, however, is the substantial increase in the activity of industrial plants. Iron mills are approaching normalcy and other factories, such as textile, leather, sugar and alcohol are even producing for exportation.

The only branch in which there has been nothing encouraging in the way of revivification is the tannery business. Once Poland was fairly alive with tanneries and the superior goods therefrom had a world demand. In the main they are idle. Not because there is no demand for their products, but because Germany either destroyed or stole all their machinery and money has not been found to rehabilitate them.

REDUCTION OR INCREASE

EDWARD MELLON is occupied much of public attention and he is the most quoted man in the United States, today.

There is reason for this. He is secretary of the federal treasury, about which hinges many of the processes by which the country must proceed to re-adjustment and he always talks of taxes, a subject that concerns one and all, either directly or remotely. Furthermore the repute of the man as being worth something near five hundred million dollars doesn't tend to lessen his prestige.

With Mr. Mellon's opinions and expressions of views have weight; they possess additional value because they evidence he is not only willing to learn, but actually does learn, and speaks openly and plainly, so there may be no misunderstanding.

Several days ago, having proposed certain methods by which revenue might be raised, he now tells congress, and through it the country, that there must be a reduction of governmental expenses, also there will be an increase of taxes.

From that it is an easy inference that in so far as it has gone congress is preparing to spend more of the people's money than it ever spent before. People will just naturally wish to know why that is so. They will be curious to have explained away those fiery oburgations of Democratic waste and extravagance, that were being so copiously issued about this time last year; they will demand an explanation of all those solemn abjurations of President Harding, through his messages, to economy and frugality in administration.

Above all they will want to be shown how it defamed Wilson, with half an army to bring back from Europe, with the standing army and navy a hundred percent greater than it is to be this year, could get along with less money than Secretary Mellon sees the Harding administration clamoring for, and which he warns can not be given without the imposition of greater tax burden.

The public are bombarded by brave tales from Washington about congress cutting down on the appropriation for this and for that, and a powerful spirit of retrenchment sweeping through the departments, that will save millions, but all this dust does not deaden the fact that congress is merely cutting down estimates, it is not lessening the sum total it is authorizing the departments to spend, to the contrary it is enlarging them.

Yes, rejecting the soldiers' bonus bill looks like a heroic stand for frugality, but, at the same time creating a welfare department, that will soon be sticking the noses of its myriads of employees into every school room and into every home that doesn't boot them out, costs more.

Mr. Mellon is right, it is either reduce or pay more. It is going to be pay more—mark that.

One reason why we like to see Ford come here is it would bring nearer the building of a railway up Tygart.

The contractors are making a great yell about Ohio having to pay higher freight rates on road material than any other state. We just wonder if the contractors are not trying to throw dust in a certain eye, with the friendly aid of the material men?

The doom of the rat is sealed at last, and no joke in that. His fur is now being utilized in making fashionable seal skin coats for women.

Guatemala uses celluloid for fractional currency. Has to be, cause climatic conditions render paper money impossible, or rather impracticable.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, August 8.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and in a petrol cart to A. Dwan's home at Great Neck and for a swim in the ocean with my dog and came Morris Gest, the theatre man, Walter Catlett and Norman Kerry, play-actors, and had a noble breakfast on the veranda.

Slept awhile in a hammock and read "Alice Adams," a brave tale, and then to W. Sheehan's house and played a game of baseball on the lawn with the girls, Frances White and Billie Dove striking the sphere for home runs and I slid on the grass and stained my white silk shirt.

With my wife to call on R. Hitchcock, the comic, who was abed with a carbuncle and infected foot but Jovial withal. Back again to A. Dwan's for a dinner of fried chicken and corn on the ear and the best ice cream ever I tasted and much merriment what with this quip and that. In the evening to an open air play and Ed Wynn mightily amusing in describing the plots. Afterward all to Madame Bobe's where Africans sang and much dancing and foolery. Home with W. Hogg in his gasoline carriage and so to bed, very tired.

Broadway slang is interesting, because of its absolute nonsense. For instance the latest is: "That's the old apple sauce!" It is applied when one means that praise is not sincere or that flattery is for some specific purpose. Broadway used to speak of it as "bull" or "salvo."

A sweltering hot evening in Mott street, Chinatown. Sober faced little Chinese children watching the American children scrambling in the streams of water that gushed from its fire hydrants but afraid to venture into the frolic. White wives of Chinese facing the stares of the curious by leaning out windows and gasping for air. They are never seen on the street. Big touring automobiles filled with sight-seers creeping snail-like through the streets. The electric sign of a new cafe on Doyer street called "The Harvard". Incidentally the leader of a new Chinatown and Chatham Square was pointed out to me. He is known as "The Machine" because he once owned an automobile. He looked mild-mannered and far from the desperado I was told he was.

What a difference a few months makes in Manhattan! Last summer a familiar sight on a Fifth Avenue corner was a modest little cottage set in a lawn, a refreshment place for thirsty cabbies. The patrons used to play croquet on the lawn and not in the shade of several big maple trees. The other day I passed the corner. It is occupied by a 12 story building, teeming with life.

A recent Sunday 455,000 persons visited Coney Island and yet statistics show that the army of visitors parted with less money for entertainment than would have been extracted from a third of that number three or four years ago. The Coney visitor now buys one "hot dog" whereas he formerly bought three. The dance parlors without beer are not patronized to any great extent. Soft drinks used to be 5 cents each and now they are 15 and 20 cents. So Coney, drinks water and carries its own lunch and seems to find that it is having just as good time. The bath house profiteer has tried to double the rates but has not been successful. Coney is stubborn about paying extortionate charges. It just won't do it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The Sibley Service, Gallopis, Ohio

Belief in Miracles Persists

A miracle, generally speaking, is a physical event "which cannot be accounted for by any known law of nature, and is therefore attributed to a supernatural force." In the religious world it is an event contrary to the orderly processes of nature caused by the direct intervention of the Father, the Son, or the Holy Ghost.

Belief in these special interventions of Providence in human events persists, and there are certain localities where diseases and crippled bodies and limbs are believed cured by certain waters of blessed character, or at religious shrines. One of these shrines is at St. Anne's Feast near Quebec in Canada.

An editorial special to the Omaha Bee last week described the afflicted visitors as follows:

"The sight of the many afflicted, among them many stretchers cases, paralyzed men, women and children in wheel chairs, children who had not walked from their infancy carried in the arms of their grief-stricken parents, cripples dragging themselves forward, terribly wasted and deformed, was unforgetable. A young girl, entirely paralyzed and blind, had come from a distant American town."

Thousands from all over the United States and Canada were there, hoping for miracle cures. The celebration of the feast began with a "huge and impressive procession in the spacious grounds of the cathedral with the participants carrying lighted wax tapers."

Hope and faith! So long as they exist we live. When they perish in our souls we are spiritually dead, although we may continue to eat, drink and be merry.

A Huge Dream to Come True

A marvel of gigantic architecture, the new bridge over the Hudson at New York will be a world wonder, greater in comparison than the Colosseum at Rhodes, the towering statue of Apollo that was one of the Seven Wonders of the World two thousand years ago. Its spires will be higher than the Woodworth Building. On the New York side will be a huge pile of solid masonry 400 by 375 feet, and 220 feet high. Towering above this commanding height will be erected two great office buildings, 70 feet wide, 250 feet long, and 280 feet high.

The bridge will be the biggest thing on earth in its line with a boulevard 12,000 feet long, and wide enough for sixteen automobiles and motor-trucks to travel abreast over it. Seven years will be required for its construction.

Loyal But Not Neisy

"The tongue can be very tame," says St. James. Has anyone heard of Woodrow Wilson's saying a word since March 4? Theodore Roosevelt went to Africa in order not to embarrass his successor. Wilson has stayed in Washington as completely uncommunicative as if he were in Madagascar-Nebaska State Journal.

Time; and a most becoming silence. But let nobody imagine Mr. Wilson is suffering from a change of heart. So far as past policies are concerned, his attitude may be correctly described by the phrase used by a West Virginia Democrat concerning a man during one of the Bryan campaigns. Discontent was created by this man's silence. The politician reassured his friends by saying he was "loyal but not noisy."

Mr. Wilson is not noisy but when he thinks the time is right he will have his say.

Ford, Railroad Manager

The Wall Street Journal, noting the fact that Henry Ford is far bigger as a shipper of fuel and raw materials and of finished automobiles than he is as a carrier owning a little railroad, remarks:

"What Ford is doing is to take his freight away from other roads and give it to his own, even when this course necessitates handling it around Robin Hood's barn and over several roads instead of over one direct line. In this manner his road has a large proportion of the through rate for a relatively short haul on a large volume of traffic which formerly never touched its rails."

That is, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad is now rather a Ford automobile plant facility than a common carrier. It is not likely that in a freight glut on that road Ford's freight would be sidetracked in favor of competitive plants in Detroit, obviously. Mr. Ford cannot be regarded as a miracle man in railroad management because of what he is doing with the D. T. & I.

Much Better

Safety Director St. Strauss, who has been very ill for several days, was much better Monday. He has been suffering from acute indigestion.

Seriously Ill

John Jenkins is seriously ill at his home on Front street.

Sherriff Better

Sherriff E. F. Bickley, who has been quite ill for several days, was reported better Monday and will soon be back on the job.

Vacation Ends

After enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation, John Goltz returned to his work in the First National Bank Monday.

Questions AND Answers

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Portsmouth Daily Times Information Bureau, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How can I tell whether a watermelon is ripe, without plugging?—J. R. C.

A. To decide whether a watermelon is ripe, note the condition of the tendril or "curl" opposite the fruit on the vine. It usually dries up and dies just about the time the fruit is ripe. A safer way is to note the color of the underside of the fruit. It generally turns from greenish white to cream color. Another way is to "kick" or "snap" the fruit with the middle finger. If it gives a dull thud it is ripe. The skin of the ripe melon is somewhat duller and firmer.

Q. How is Swedish iron tempered?—A. H. H.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that iron cannot be tempered; this applies to Swedish as well as other kinds. After being alloyed with carbon so as to form steel it may be hardened by quenching from a temperature which must be above the critical range. This hardened steel is usually tempered, that is, heated to a relatively low temperature in order to reduce brittleness. The use to which the steel will be put determines the tempering temperature.

Q. What can be done to suppress rabies?—T. E. M.

A. The Bureau of Animal Industry says that the problem is solved when the rabid dog is eliminated. It recommends licensing all dogs, muzzling all dogs not otherwise kept in restraint and rigid inspection and quarantining at borders and ports of entry. Other countries, notably Great Britain, have managed to stamp out the disease.

Q. What are Roman cements?—N. M. J.

A. In Europe natural cements are called Roman cements and they were first manufactured in England in 1796 by James Parker. Natural cements began to be manufactured in France about 1825; in the United States natural cement rock was discovered while building the Erie Canal in New York in 1815.

Q. Were the stones used in building the pyramids the largest stones quarried in those days?—P. K. B.

A. Herodotus mentions a stone of 5,000 tons out of which a temple to Athena was carved and placed in the city of Buto near one of the mouths of the Nile.

Q. Where was Joaquin Miller born?—Q. E. D.

A. Cincinnati. Heine Miller, better known as Joaquin Miller was born in Wabash District of Indiana in 1841. The name Joaquin is supposed to have been taken from Joaquin Murietta, a Mexican bandit, of whom Miller wrote a defense.

Q. What is the other name for a Pipe of Pan?—L. M. A.

A. The Pipe of Pan was called the Syrinx, the legend being that the water nymph Syrinx was changed into a reed to escape from Pan who loved her. He took the reed, cut it into seven pieces of graduated length, joined them together and fashioned the instrument which he called by her name.

Q. What is the proportion of soda that should be used with sour milk?—U. S. M.

A. One-half teaspoonful of soda is required for each cup of sour milk used in cooking.

Q. Over how great a part of the United States will black berries grow?—C. C.

A. Some variety or other of blackberry is cultivated in all parts of the United States except in Southern Florida, part of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Montana and sections of the western states where hot, dry winds destroy the ripening fruits.

Two girls unfamiliar with baseball were watching the local nine play a visiting team last Saturday.

"Isn't that fine?" remarked one girl. "We have a man on every base."

"Why, that's nothing," said the other, "so have they." Boston Transcript.

This Way Out

"Alphonse" said the mistress, "I have been thinking."

"Thinking of me, precious?" asked Alphonse.

"Indirectly, yes; I have been thinking if you married me, everybody would say you only did so to get my money."

"What care I for the unthinkable world?"

"But, Alphonse, I will marry you."

"My own dear—"

"And I will not have people say unkind things about you, so I have arranged to give my fortune to the missionaries. Why, Alphonse, where are you going?"

Alphonse paused long enough on his way to the door to look back and mutter: "I'm going to be a missionary."

They were watching. No Doubt "Watch your step, Miss," cautioned the conductor of a street car.

"It isn't necessary," snapped the incoming passenger, "that bunch of sapheads on the curb are doing that for me."

A Serious Trouble

They're sewed the clothes on Dolly! How dreadful it must be

To wear the same things when one sleeps

And at a company tea!

What if my mother should forget To take mine off at night?

I guess they'd say at breakfast-time: "Why, what a perfect fright!"

And my poor, pretty Dolly— I've combed her flaxen hair, But oh, to think it night and day! This same pink gown to wear!

'Tis pretty, of soft China silk. The sash fringed through a ring. But that she can not have a bath I'm ashamed as anything!

She ought to be unressed at night And tucked up in a bed, With just a night gown trimmed with lace.

After her prayers are said, I think I'll have her pray tonight, After "I lay me" is through, To have the stitches taken out And live as neat folks do.

So Would We

He was one of the few remaining old-time darkies. He had finished the old jobs for which he had been employed, and, hat in hand, appeared at the back door.

"How much is it, an'le?" was asked. "Yo' say how much? Jest whatever yo' all say, mases."

"Oh, I'd rather you would say how much," the lady of the house replied. "Yes, ma'am! But wa'am. Ah! rather hab de seventy-five cents yo' all would gimme dan de fifty cents Ah'd charge yo' all."

Risky Pastime

Father returned from his first driving lesson boasting of his easy mastery of the new car. To please him, several of his family consented to ride with him, and things went well until a car coming up behind them hooked its horn.

The startled driver jerked his wheel to the right, running down a steep bank, then to the left, heading into a fence, and to the right again, luckily bringing up in the road.

"But what on earth are you trying to do?" demanded his breathless son. "Wig, son," replied the new driver calmly. "I was just practising turning out for teams."

The banquet hall was adorned with many beautiful paintings, and the president of the little college was called upon to respond to a toast. Desiring to pay a compliment to the ladies present, he designated the paintings with an eloquent gesture and said:

"What need is there of those painted beauties when we have so many with us at the table?"

Saxophonist Artie Small is learning to be a blacksmith between dances so he'll have a trade if he's laid back on when the country comes to its senses. Who remembers when it used to take six or seven years of hard, steady, consistent drinking to kill a feller?

Galbreath To Get Pardon

RIPLEY, O., August 8.—Official information has been given out that upon August 15th, Elmer E. Galbreath will be released from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Georgia, upon parole.

At that time he will have served approximately two years and eight months of a sentence of 7 1/2 years imposed on him by the late United States District Judge Howard C. Hollister, in February, 1917, following his conviction under a charge of having violated the national banking laws, he having been at that time president of the Second National Bank at Cincinnati.

Galbreath is remembered as a former Ripley citizen. His father established the Ripley National Bank there. It was through Galbreath's efforts that the O. R. & C. railroad was built and his connection with that undertaking is well remembered. When he identified himself with the Cincinnati banking institution, he moved his family from Ripley to that city.

Since the parole of Charles H. Davis, former chairman of the board of directors of the old Second National, a year ago, rumor has been persistent that Galbreath also would be given his freedom. The fact that Galbreath's four sons had served with distinction in the World War, and had supported their mother since Galbreath entered the penitentiary in January, 1910, also had been considered by Mr. Clark.

A Wonderful Sunday

Words can hardly express the blessings of heaven that attended the entire services at the Third Street tent meetings Sunday.

The love feast of testimony lasted till noon. This reporter has attended many such meetings in a large number of places in the United States but has yet to see one to equal this feast Sunday morning. The spirit of God was preeminently present, causing a great heart melting time which did not subside until the meeting closed.

At 3:30 p. m. Evangelist Moore preached from Rom. 1:16 "I am not ashamed of the gospel for it is the power of God unto Salvation." He plainly showed that the scriptural term, "Salvation," means to be saved from a death condition spiritually to one of life. That this death starts at birth. That this death is hell begun and if no salvation comes will grow more hellish as life continues rotated only by law and good environment and that after death with all good restriction gone, that soul naturally slinks forever down, down and still faster down in a larger and ever larger increasing hell throughout eternity. "The salvation of the gospel brings complete deliverance from this spiritual death causing the soul to know Jesus Christ which is eternal life."

"The power in the gospel is the Holy Ghost. It is He who effects every stage of deliverance. He convicts, presses repentance, shows the blood of Christ, calls away guilt, causes the new birth, witnesses to our relationship with God, thoroughly regenerates leads to complete consecration, shows the privilege of receiving His baptism through the blood of Christ, sanctifies and fills the heart with Himself, leads on till death and opens the gates of pearl to that saint when leaving this life."

At night Evangelist Cochran preached in great power from the text "He was manifested to take away our sins." During the sermon the spirit of God fell on many of the Christians making it difficult to contain themselves. And at the close several souls found life and joy at the altar.

It is planned to have afternoon meetings at 3:00 from now on, and also for the evening meetings to continue each night at 8:00.
